EXPECT BENEFIT FROM FOREST FIRE TRAIN

The forest fire fighting flyer which was here during February finished its itinerary in Northeastern Michigan last week at Omer with a total attendance of over 18,000 for the 28 stops which it made. As far as attendance and interest was concerned, it is considered by all as a remarkable success. "It is doubtful," according to Mr. L. L. Livingston, "whether any other project of a similar nature has ever been as well attended as was this 'Flyer'." The real test, however, of its effectiveness is going to be the interest which will be taken in the threats of the red enemy and the toll which it collects next summer. We all have a responsibility toward the forest fires which threaten the prosperity of ourselves and our children and the main purpose of this train was to make us realize it. The Conservation department alone cannot stop these fires. It needs the help of the farmer who caused one-fifth of the fires during the past ten years; it needs the help of the railroads who caused one-sixth of them; it needs the help of the tourist who caused about one-fourth of them; it needs the help of the lumberman, the smoker, etc., all of whom have a share in the starting of fires. Team work alone will keep Michigan green. A green Michigan means millions of dollars from our tourist business, it guarantees to our posterity a timber supply as ample as which nature provided our fathers with, and it protects our greatest industry, agriculture.

McGILLIVRAY SHOWS INTEREST IN PICTURES

James McGillivray, educator of the Michigan Conservation Department whose motion pictures of Michigan wild life are spreading the recreation reputation beyond the confines of the state and are educating the residents of the state to the necessity of conservation, is this year showing a reel of pictures depicting the life of eagles and bald eagles to adulthood, which are arousing universal acclaim. Two baby eagles were captured and tamed by Mr. McGillivray and his children. The pictures reveal the growth and development of the eagles in an environment of semi-domesticity that is interesting and unique. In his lectures which are held all over the state, Mr. McGillivray emphasizes the importance of conserving Michigan's recreational features in the development of one of Michigan's greatest industries—the tourist business. In lectures at Alpena and Bay City recently he paid warm tribute to the work being done by the East Michigan Tourist Association and the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau.

CITIZEN'S MILITARY TRAINING CAMP OFFICIALS URGE EARLY ENROLLMENT

The C. M. T. C. enrollment is well underway and all young men desiring to attend the camps this summer are urged to submit their applications at once. There is a limit to the number of young men who will be given this opportunity and the applications are being treated in the same manner as heretofore, in the order received. To be assured of a place at the camp, mail your application in today. Get in touch with your local chairman or one of your committeemen, who will be glad to give you further information in regards to the requirements, etc., and will furnish you with the necessary application blank.

Last year at this time the Bay City District was leading the entire State of Michigan in the enrollment of C. M. T. C. Students and it is hoped that when the next tri-monthly report is received from Corps Area Headquarters that it will show an increase over last year.

For further information write to: Crawford County: Mr. Melvin A. Bates, chairman, Grayling, Michigan; Mr. Clarence B. Johnson, committeeman, Grayling, Mich.; Mr. B. Earle Smith, committeeman, Grayling, Mich.

ROSCOMMON CO. WINS GRAND XMAS SEAL PRIZE

To Roscommon county whose population is the smallest of any county in the state of Michigan goes the grand prize offered by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association to the county making the greatest per capita gain during the 1925 tuberculosis Christmas seal sale. To Roscommon county goes also the Leland trophy offered by Frank B. Leland of Detroit to that county, making the greatest per capita gain.

The grand prize consists of an inspection by a member of the nursing staff of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association of all the school children in Roscommon county. The Leland trophy is a beautiful bronze plaque commemorating the Nellie Leland open air school, the first in Michigan donated by Mr. Leland to the city of Detroit. The plaque will be hung in the office of Miss Elsie Hollowell, Roscommon county commissioner of schools, through whose efforts the sale was helped to become such a success.

According to returns just completed at the Lansing office of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association Roscommon county made a gain of 3.31 cents for each person in the county. Last year her per capita sale amounted to but 2.86 cents while this year it amounted to 6.32 cents. Livingston county was the winner a year ago and Genesee county the year before that.

DEPT. APPLIES AXE TO GAME WARDENS

(By Ed A. Nowack)

Lansing, Mich.—Dismissal and demotion for five district game wardens, arrest of 138 men for careless and incendiary forest fire setting, a total forest fire loss and suppression cost of $297,927.90, depletion of the 1925 legislative appropriation for forest fire work and two per cent of Michigan's area swept by forest fires constitute the high lights in the 1925 fire report filed by Charles A. Peterson, chief forest fire warden.

Briefly, Chief Peterson's figures are as follows:

No. of fires	8,855
Acres burned	729,928
Estimated damaged submitted by wardens	$474,449
Cost of impressed labor,
meals and cartage	$126,042
Expense of regular force
and all operations	$227,435
Total loss to state	$297,927

The upper peninsula suffered from 1,380 fires, the lower peninsula 2,475 fires. Total acres burned was two per cent of Michigan's area.

Number of fires by area were:

Under one-quarter acre	354
One-quarter to 10 acres	1,084
Over 10 acres	2,417

Causes of Fires are given as:

Unknown	1,299
Campers	446
Incendiary	121
Lightning	39
Spontaneous	106
Clearing	625
Railroads	694
Smokers	424
Lumbering	113

Total 8,855

The 1925 legislature appropriated $225,000 for the 1925 season. The federal government gave the department $37,080 more. Figuratively speaking, this money went up in smoke and Director Baird authorized expenditure of $19,388.45 of sportsmen's license fees to fight fires. The department undoubtedly will go before the 1927-1928 legislature and ask for increased appropriations.

Dismissal and demotion of five district wardens by Chief Peterson is made for the "good of the service," he says. Districts affected are District 3 (Marquette, Baraga, Houghton counties); District 5 (Dickinson, Delta, Menominee); District 6 (Schoolcraft, Alger, Luce); District 9 (Ontonagon, Cheboygan, Montmorency); District 14 (Newaygo, Muskegon, Oceana, Ottawa).

Two of the 15 districts show less of a fire loss than for 1924. District 12 (Benzie, Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Wexford), under Mark Crawford, recorded 168 more fires in 1925 than for 1924 yet its total loss was $819 less than in 1924.

District Warden William Baird, son of Director John Baird, and head of District 16 (Bay, Saginaw, Clare, Midland, Isabella, Arenac, Gladwin), shows a fire loss decrease of $7,818 over 1924 although his district had 39 more fires in 1925 than in 1924. He also shows 30,053 acres saved from fire marks for 1925 over the previous year.

The fire loss in District 1 (Gogebic and Ontonagon) was 33 times greater in 1925 than for 1924. District 17 (Mackinaw and Chippewa) suffered 18 times as heavily over 1924 while District 11, which promises to have a distinct bearing in Rep. Gillett's proposed investigation, suffered about ten times the loss in 1925 than for 1924 with 111,956 acres burned last year as against 22,686 a year ago.

The state collected in fines and cost imposed on men who carelessly or deliberately set forest fires, $3,140 and several sentences from 10 to 90 days were imposed. What carelessness cost Michigan in the case of Andrew Ramano, St. Ignace, is set forth by Chief Peterson as follows: The state spent upwards of $1,500 in fire suppression of the blaze started by Ramano. The Soo-Cadillac Co., lost $25,000 in merchantable timber and equipment. Wardens rescued 5 men and women from a flaming death trap. Many tourists were turned back from the straits region because of heavy smoke and Gov. Groesbeck moved to ascertain the facts in the fire.

GOVERNOR AND WOMEN WINNERS

No Objections Voiced Against Prison and Trunk Line Bills

(By Ed A. Nowack)

With the womanhood of Michigan voluntarily back of Gov. Groesbeck's Okemos women's prison bill, the legislative Monday afternoon, without a dissenting vote and on an affirmative roll call, passed the bill that previously had been defeated because of the too hasty departure a week ago of some homesick representatives. As an anti-climax to the quiet that accompanied passage of this bill, came the motion of Rep. R. W. McLain, Quincy, bitterest administration foe of a few days ago, to give this bill immediate effect. Sixty representatives were present on the roll call, while six additional came in later, but the immediate effect clause could not be granted as it takes a two-thirds majority, or 67 votes. The assembly reconvened at its own expense, the second time in Michigan's political history that this occurred.

After a series of recesses the assembly, by another affirmative vote, adopted the Atwood senate concurrent resolution giving the state administrative board authority to spend as much money for trunk line maintenance in 1926 as may become necessary. This resolution supplants the Atwood trunk line bill killed in the conference committee report last week. Passage of the resolution with the affirmative roll call places the undeniable legislative stamp of approval on Gov. Groesbeck's highway program and gives the executive, so his supporters and enemies alike declare, a virtual vote of confidence on the very matters that called for such bitter attacks a week ago. These legislative actions put the governor in a very amiable mood and brought to a peaceful ending a session that had been at times, curiously bitter.

Mrs. C. L. Thompson of Muskegon, state legislative chairman of the Michigan Federation of Women's clubs, addressed both houses in appreciation of the Okemos prison bill. She said that 60,000 Michigan women were asking for the prison bill, not on the grounds of sentimentality, but solely to provide proper retreat for unfortunate women.

The assembly adopted resolutions of regret at Palmer H. Hutchinson's tragic death by an airplane at Fairbanks, Alaska, last week. Hutchinson, former capital news writer, was with the polar expedition when he met his death.

REALTY ACTIVITY IN ROSCOMMON COUNTY

Saginaw interests have purchased Norway or Sink Hole Lake, three miles south of Roscommon and have acquired land in juxtaposition to the lake frontage. A group of Detroit men is said to be negotiating the purchase of twelve sections of land on the AuSable river, north of St. Helen. The Woodmen of America are said to be seeking a large acreage along the AuSable for a summer colony. Two miles from Twin Lakes, a reported purpose of establishing a Boy Scout camp.

RESPECT FOR LAW

The sudden change in transportation which has been brought about by the institution of the automobile has brought with it a host of laws in an endeavor to control and regulate traffic. These laws have, in many cases, been make-shifts and efforts at enforcing them have been sporadic and in the main unsuccessful. These feeble attempts at traffic regulations have, in the main, been ignored, and such results as have been attained have tended more toward disgusting the victim with the miscarriage of justice than they have to solving the problems of automobile driving.

Speed laws have been written on all municipal books and into the state code and yet they are violated a million times a day. True, there is an occasional arrest, but it does not tend to the respect for any law to be arrested for the violation of an act which the arrested person sees disregarded everywhere he turns. Neither does it tend to respect for law to the driver who keeps within the law and sees a continuous parade passing at a speed even double that allowed by the statute.

The same is true of light regulation. Hardly a day passes without its news story of a traffic accident blamed to the blinding glare of headlights, and yet there is no effort made to enforce even the simplest of headlight laws. One of the state headlights, and yet an evening on a highway will show any driver cars with one blind light.

If these laws are impossible of enforcement for any reason, then let the state and municipal authorities announce that they are not prepared to enforce them and remove the faces entitled not to mention the injustice done the occasional victim. If the driver gains a disrespect for automobile laws—and how can he help doing so?—will not this same disrespect associate itself with all forms of law and law enforcement?

MICHIGAN ESTATE MAY BE FISHERY

Large Tract Near Rose City Sought By Government

Washington, March 15.—A private estate located near Rose City, Mich., which comprises approximately 4,000 acres and upon which are located a large number of small lakes suitable for the propagation of fresh water fish, has been inspected by the commissioner of fisheries of the department of commerce and Glenn Leach, chairman of the department of fisheries, according to a report of the United States bureau of fisheries today.

It is expected that the propagation of bass on a large scale will be accomplished in the waters on the estate, which is owned by Henry Dewett, and that the young bass will be distributed in suitable waters in Michigan.

The greatest opportunity presented in the project, however, is said to be the raising of trout to the large fingerling sizes before distribution into public waters.—Detroit Free Press.

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK

President Calvin Coolidge has proclaimed American Forest Week for April 18-24. The President, who has a keen conception of the human mind strikes a particularly fine sentiment in his proclamation recently issued from the White House: "Flourishing woodlands," he writes, "mean more than timber crops, permanent industries and an adequate supply of wood. They minister to our need for outdoor recreation; they preserve animal and bird life; they protect and beautify our hillside and feed our streams; they preserve the inspiring natural environment which has contributed so much to American character."

The Michigan Press Association has undertaken a campaign for reforestation and fire prevention for the wide areas of Michigan that were denuded of their timber in the early days of the lumber industry in this state. The members of this association have an earnest desire to see the temple hills of the northland again covered with their growing crops of trees, a crop that will bring back the clean streams and wild life that were here when the pioneers first came to claim the land. Planting a tree and preserving it for posterity is a pretty good monument to leave behind. Let every loyal son of Michigan become a part of this great movement.

And Now in Closing—

It takes more than mere obedience to the law to make a good citizen. What we need most are those who see in their citizenship an opportunity for service among their fellowmen.

LAID TO REST AMONG COMRADES

DR. PALMER FUNERAL AT PASADENA MARCH 12th

Dr. Oscar Palmer was laid to rest March 12th in G. A. R. cemetery, Pasadena, California, which is set aside exclusively for veterans of the Civil war and their wives.

It was a very impressive ceremony and was attended by 150 Civil War veterans, and as they walked past the casket each dropped a rose into it, and the lifeless remains of our beloved former citizen was literally buried in roses. Besides 17 wreaths were sent in by friends and acquaintances. An old soldier sang "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," and a lady sang, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." A memorial monument is being built in this cemetery, which is to contain the names of all Civil war soldiers and adjoints the Palmer lot.

Mrs. Palmer, it is reported, is bearing her grief and sorrow bravely, and while it is hard to give up the Doctor, she says that she realizes that it is for the best. In a recent letter she enclosed a poem that she says seems to quite express her feelings. It is entitled "Sorrow" and reads as follows:

SORROW
You are lonely and you miss him, and you mourn him now he's dead. But to spare you all the heartache, would you call him back again? Would you want him here to suffer all life's misery in your stead? Would you buy your days of comfort with his hours of endless pain? It was sweet to have him with you, and it's often now you mourn. But would you have him suffer, just to keep him for your own?

Be not troubled by the notion Heaven is very far away. It is nearer than men fancy, it is nearer than they know. And the loved ones who have left us, every night and every day. Seem to draw us closer to them as their memories brighter glow. They are safe in Heaven's keeping, they are free from hurt and pain, but to save us from our weeping we would call them back again.

'Tis for them we hear this anguish, 'tis for them we stay alone. God has called them up to Heaven that they need not suffer more. To a fairer realm than this is, have their lovely spirits flown, and they dwell in perfect splendor on that not so distant shore. Once we watched them in their anguish, once we saw them in their pain. Now to spare ourselves this heart-ache, should we call them back again?

A DEADLY PESTILENCE

The ages old controversy between the wets and dries, which seems to have suddenly burst into a mighty conflagration, is obscuring one thing that is even more deadly than John Barleycorn ever was even in his most palmy days.

We refer to the narcotic habit—a habit that ensnares its victims within a week and once established kills the ambition, poisons the mind, destroys the body and wrecks the home, and hands to society the skeleton of a human being, the most dejected and miserable of all human derelicts.

The Harrison drug law has been mighty beneficial in stopping much of the wholesale importation and sale of habit forming drugs, but in spite of the law and in the face of herculean efforts towards enforcement by government officials there is said to be at the present time over four million addicts in this country alone.

Here is a situation that should be leaved well alone. The highwayman takes either your money or your life, the bootlegger may sell you synthetic concoctions that benumb for the time being, but the peddler of drugs takes all, for by degrees, and rapid degrees, he ushers unfortunate humanity into crime, degradation and eternity. Dope peddlers are ensnaring their victims in ever widening circles; it is time that this nation became aroused to the situation and scourge law them from the United States as we would any pestilence that was threatening our home and our loved ones.

The daintiness and loveliness of the affair could hardly be surpassed, the

POPULAR LECTURER AND HUMORIST

Frank Church Will Speak Here.

Frank Church.

Frank Church, who appears here on the Interstate Lyceum course this season, is known widely as one of the most dynamic and interesting personalities on the lecture platform.

As "Fighting Red" Church he is often introduced, which describes him perfectly. His doughty buddies overseas affectionately nicknamed him "Red," and "Fighting" was added because of his fearless and fiery speeches in behalf of political and moral reform. Through all his earnestness there play flashes of irresistible humor, like sunshine on an April day, with exquisite word paintings and striking impersonations. Church has the rapidity of a machine gun in action and the punch and pep of a Billy Sunday.

When the World war came on, Church left his work at whitening campaign and went "overseas," where he entertained and lectured to our boys, and no man in France was more celebrated and loved by them. In this work he was a member of the Flying Squadron, a group of the leading speakers of America.

Dramatic Story Teller.
He spent over two years entertaining great crowds of boys and girls. Called the "Modern Pied Piper of Childhood," called by the youngsters "The Funny Man," children go crazy over him and follow him in crowds on the streets.

He is a "Wit" at humorous monologues and side-splitting jokes, an icebreaker of the first water. No audience can long withstand his humorous sallies, funny stories and mimicry.

What He Talks About.
The Call of the New America.

The Unexpected.

Ginger and Snuff, or How to Land on Both Feet.

Home, Sweet Home, or Sunshine with a Punch.

It usually happens that a good lecturer is the most enjoyable and best remembered number on a lyceum course. It is predicted that this will be true here, because Frank Church is continually called back to town after town.

SCHOOL AUDITORIUM, FREDERIC, TONIGHT (THURSDAY) MARCH 25

in the Mt. Pleasant regional tournament, which is a fine compliment to himself and the school he represented.

Course of Many Holes

A "dude" ranch out West boasted a golf course. The owner of the ranch was telling a friend about it. "And how many holes has your golf course?" inquired the friend. "That's hard to answer," replied the ranch owner. "You see, we have all the badger holes filled up, and we're just starting on the gopher holes."

Michigan Happenings

Martin Delaney, of Ishpeming, former pugilist now living comfortably on the winnings of many hard fought battles, returned briefly to the game St. Patrick's day. His fighting spirit and the urge of the holiday manifested themselves simultaneously. While leading a young bull to the market, the animal became unruly and attacked his escort, whereupon the former pugilist swung heavily on the bull's chin with his left and upper-cut under the left ear with his right, sending the animal down for the count. The bull was a yearling.

It is possible that re-opening of the telephone rate investigation by the state public utilities commission may result favorably to Detroit subscribers, whose temporary victory in obtaining a reduction in rates is now questioned by the Michigan Bell Telephone company in federal court proceedings. As conditions now stand, Detroit phone users are guaranteed the reduced rates at least until the federal court makes a finding on the company's petition to restrain enforcement of the January 7 order on the ground it is confiscatory.

J. R. McColl, of Detroit, chairman of the building committee, of the State Board of Agriculture, submitted the general plans for the new $600,000 chemistry building which will be constructed at Michigan State College to the board at its last monthly meeting. The sketches were approved and sent back to the architects, in order that the detailed plans might be made. The new building was authorized by the State Legislature at the last regular session.

Better law enforcement was asked of the state administration by the Michigan division, Isaak Walton League of America at its annual convention at Grand Rapids recently. The report of the committee on resolutions submitted by H. A. Savage, Saginaw, chairman, adopted in full by the division, stressed the need of law enforcement as essential, in the interest of more forests, more game and more camping places, which were demanded by the division.

George H. Wigginton, president of the Kalamazoo Loose Leaf Binder company, who at a conference with anti-Groesbeck factionists, recently declared his intention of entering the race for the Republican nomination for governor, has announced that he has reconsidered the matter and will not permit his name to be used. Wigginton says that he will devote his energies towards healing the breach in the party instead of uniting with any faction to widen it.

Three students who will represent the University of Michigan in the debates with Oxford, Cambridge and other English colleges in England, during May, were chosen after a series of tryouts. The three selected are: Ephraim Gombert, Duluth, Minn.; Gerald White, Lowell, and William King, Carthage, Mo. The Michigan team will leave Ann Arbor about May 1, with Professor R. D. T. Hollister, of the public speaking department, who will act as coach.

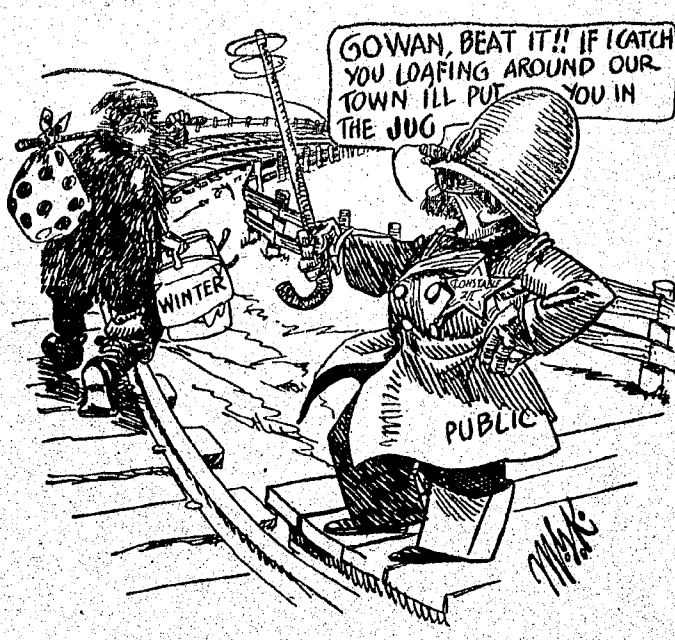

Michigan's prohibition rally, April 22 to 25 is designed primarily as the opening gun in the Anti-Saloon league's campaign to elect a Michigan delegation in congress this fall that be ardly inclined and contest any attempt to modify the Volstead law. R. N. Holsapple, head of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league said recently. Holsapple made public the league's plans for a monster rally in connection with the nation-wide prohibition demonstration.

Tax collections for the Western Michigan district on 1925 incomes seem likely to equal the 1924 payments despite the marked reduction in tax rates under the 1925 Revenue Act, according to Charles Holden, collector of internal revenue. Indications are the number of non-taxable returns will be the lowest since 1917. Receipts are averaging about $300,000 daily, but about 60 days will be required to check the totals accurately.

"The total number of illiterates in Michigan," said Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, director of the national literacy crusade speaking before the Detroit Institute of Technology, "is 88,046. Of this number 29,954 are in Detroit. Michigan is one of the few states that had more illiteracy in 1920 than in 1910. The number increased 14,000. Michigan is seventeenth among the states in illiteracy and nineteenth, based on native born whites."

Harry H. Freeman, who took office March 1 as Jackson city manager, was removed from office recently at a special meeting of the city commission. Freeman came to Jackson from Kalamazoo, where he was city manager for three years. "A number of occurrences," was the only explanation of Freeman's removal given by members of the commission. T. H. Knight, assistant city manager, was named acting manager by the commission.

Out of a Job

One hundred and two students are expected to graduate from the State Normal College at Ypsilanti at the close of the winter term, March 25, according to a preliminary list prepared by C. P. Steimle, registrar of the college. K. Wrench, manager of the Plymouth and Northville Gas company, subsidiary of the Michigan Federated Utilities of Battle Creek.

A bill authorizing the erection of a veterans' bureau hospital at or near Detroit at an estimated cost of $1,250,000 has been introduced in the house by Representative John B. Sowers. The proposed hospital will be a modern structure and will be used to provide additional hospital and outpatient dispensary facilities for persons entitled to hospitalization under the World war veterans act of 1924.

Ionia free fair fans will be treated to exceptional pyrotechnics this year, according to Fred A. Chapman, secretary, who has changed the program from the one announced a few months ago. He has engaged the first show in Michigan of "1776," held to be one of the best patriotic spectacles ever produced. It has been the policy in the past to take the production shown at the state fair the year following.

Anne M. Schill, retiring superintendent of the Hurley Hospital at Flint, she announced that for the last three years she has been Mrs. Frank E. Kirk. Dr. Louis H. Toffeau, of Philadelphia, will succeed Mrs. Kirk on April 1 when her resignation becomes effective. Mr. and Mrs. Kirk will make their home in Dearborn, Mich., where Mr. Kirk has business interests.

The pageant of historic Monroe will be represented on the bank of Plum Creek in which territory part of the Battle of the River Raisin was waged in 1813 in which hundreds of American soldiers were scalped by the Indians. The site is a mile south of Monroe city and the use of it has been donated by Benjamin Breeding, the owner. The pageant will be given on the evenings of June 23 and 24.

Seven slot machines of the 5 and 15 cent variety were seized in Erie township by Lieutenant Orva Jackson and Troopers Leslie Maycock, Lawrence Dan and Atwood Pearl. The machines were located in garages, a restaurant and oil station. Machines were taken to the barracks at South Rockwood where they will be destroyed.

In Modern Turkey

Here is one sign of the change of the times in Turkey, which is fast becoming modernized through the efforts of Kemal Pasha. We wonder what the patriarchs of Turkey would say on viewing the Turkish woman, unveiled, and standing on the street having her shoes polished.

COOLIDGE'S FATHER IS LAID TO REST

Simple Rites for President's Parent; Interred in Family Cemetery.

Plymouth, Vt.—The funeral of Col. John Calvin Coolidge, sturdy Vermont pioneer, was held from the home in which he had lived for so many years and in which, three years ago, he had sworn his distinguished son as President of the United States.

In keeping with the wishes of the colonel, so often expressed, and also in keeping with the wishes of President Coolidge, the services were simple. Immediately after the funeral the President returned to Washington.

Rev. John White, the Episcopal minister who conducts services at the church across the road from the colonel's house, officiated. Everything except the precise time for the rites had been dictated by the colonel himself several weeks before he died.

There were no hymns at the funeral. The President insisted upon this. There were no hymns for his mother when she was buried, he recalled, and he wanted none for his father. There were no church services. The simple rites were inside the old home, after which the body of Colonel Coolidge was taken up to the little cemetery on the hill a quarter of a mile away.

The colonel died while his son Calvin was speeding by special train to his bedside from the White House in the vain hope of clasping his father's hand in farewell. The President was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, their son John, and party.

At the deathbed were Doctor Crum, Mrs. May Johnson, the nurse; the colonel's housekeeper, Miss Pierce, and Deputy Sheriff Angus Macaulay. All these had been his faithful attendants during his illness.

Both houses of congress, government officials and foreign diplomats paid tribute to the memory of the President's father. From all parts of the country came thousands of messages of sympathy to President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The senate adopted a resolution of condolence on the motion of Senator Dale (Rep., Vt.), and adjourned without transacting any business. The house adopted a resolution offered by Representative Garrett (Dem., Tenn.), the minority leader.

Three weeks before his death Colonel Coolidge transferred to his son, Calvin, the farm on which members of the Coolidge family have lived for generations. The farm consists of 225 acres with the white farmhouse which was the President's boyhood home.

The colonel died ostensibly penniless, although a man of substance. Neighbors say that all property other than the land was made over to the President during his lifetime. Plymouth never knew the value of the Calvin G. Coolidge estate, and the same secrecy was maintained in the case of the colonel's property.

In addition to the homestead, the President owns the lime kiln lot which is the Coolidge sugar orchard. This tract he inherited from his grandfather.

Carcinoma, a form of cancer, was given as the cause of Colonel Coolidge's death. It affected the region of the bladder, his physician said, with myocarditis, an inflammation of the heart muscles, a contributing factor.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS

The house voted against inserting an amendment in the District of Columbia appropriation bill to withhold the salary of any teacher or official who permitted the teaching of "disrespect to the Bible, partisan politics, or that ours is an inferior form of government."

Continued improvement in the relationship between the United States and Mexico is expected by President Coolidge.

Criticizing the delay in the construction of an outlet to the sea for the Middle West, Senator Deneen (Rep., Ill.), told the rivers and harbors board of the War department that what the West wants is less talking and more action.

President Coolidge has accepted as a gift a young wildcat, which until recently roamed the Great Smoky mountain of Tennessee, but he specified that shipment was to be made direct to the National zoo.

Proposals to provide for local option votes by congressional districts in the elections this fall on the wine and beer question have been introduced by Representative Hill (Rep., Md.), leader of the wet group in the house.

230 Quakes Since January 1

Washington.—A total of 230 earthquakes occurred in the United States, its territories, and adjacent regions during the quarter ending March 31, 1925, according to a report issued by the coast and geodetic survey.

Bridegroom, 16, Takes Life

New York.—A few hours after his parents had taken steps to annul his marriage to his sixteen-year-old bride, Louis Cavello, sixteen, of Brooklyn, killed himself in the girl's presence.

The men who used to pull out their gold-filled, jeweled watches on the slightest provocation now talk about their automobiles and golf scores.

Charm of Needlecraft in Simple Tub Frocks

All the signposts of fashion point in the direction of tub frocks for summer, made of various washable materials and for many different uses. Since freshness is a perennial charm in summer clothes, the designers of sports and afternoon frocks have centered attention on materials that can be laundered. The new rayon fabrics are in demand for sports dresses, but voile and other sheer fabrics maintain their popularity for afternoon wear. They are usually made in soft pastel colors and adorned with needlework which gives them a touch of elegance.

Some Good in It

A farmer surprised his wife by buying two tickets for a whist drive. "But you can't play whist," she said. "No," replied her husband, "but I thought the drive would do us good."

Tiny Church

The smallest Catholic church in the world is on the Old Palo Alto plantation in Louisiana. The chapel is large enough for a small altar and standing room for the priest celebrating mass. The congregation occupies benches outside of the chapel.

Concrete Streets, like Concrete Roads, are built for permanence.

Why Clare Paved with Portland Cement Concrete

When the business men of Clare, Michigan, decided it was time to pave the city's main thoroughfare, they wanted assured protection against costly repairs. They wanted a pavement that would remain true and even, firm and rigid under all kinds of traffic.

That's why they decided on portland cement concrete—the pavement you recognize by its non-skid surface and its pleasing, light gray color.

Tourists passing through Clare always praise its concrete pavement. Some day they will no doubt have the pleasure of driving on concrete over M-14, the heavily traveled highway leading to the famous summer resorts of the North Country.

Concrete on M-14 will mean a great deal to local prosperity in the years ahead. Don't just say "pave." Say "pave with portland cement concrete."

Strange that there are not more soy beans planted around here, especially by the farmers who want a good, milk-producing hay for cows, and have not yet got enough alfalfa started.

Close Rival of the Famous Alfalfa
As you remember, the feed value of soy beans is almost as high as that of alfalfa, ton for ton. Of course, we are not trying to get you to forget to enlarge your fields of alfalfa. Keep right on getting more of that until you have at least forty acres of it, but while you are getting into the alfalfa game, soy beans will help you out with a hay that will make a cow smile from ear to ear.

You Get Quick Action

While you are liming and putting acid phosphate on a good big piece for alfalfa this spring, of course you cannot cut hay there before next year. So, to be sure to have some good, milk-producing legume hay to go with the good, bright corn fodder that you are going to raise, you just put in a few acres of soy beans right after you get the corn planted. You can cut them for hay with the mowing machine when the soy beans are in blossom, about the last of August. I tell you, they come in handy in the winter. They are a big help in bringing in the dairy dollars in the winter, just when it is handy to have the dairy dollars coming in.

Soy Beans Are Very Accommodating
They grow quite well on acid soil where clover, sweet clover and alfalfa would keel over and die. We have plenty of acid soil. Soy grows quite well on a soil that is low in fertility. We have some of that, too.

Soy beans are very accommodating, the poor man's assistant, his faithful friend. He can get hay from them three months after planting. They plug right along on sour, poor soil. What more could you ask?

They ought to be inoculated with one of those twenty-five cent bottles of inoculation per bushel of seed. This helps them do better.

Seed Quite Cheap
If we get orders enough it is quite likely that we can get the seed at about $2.50 per bushel. Something near that, anyhow.

If put in with a grain drill, all spouts running a bushel, to a bushel and a peck per acre will be needed.

One winter our farmers placed orders for more than 4000 pounds. Many a happy user told the county agent that they did not know what they would have done without that hay.

Some keep right on using soy beans year after year. Not a bad plan either. They can be drilled in with a grain drill with only two, or on some drills, three spouts running. They can then be cultivated and will grow somewhat larger. We never cultivate them more than three times on the state demonstration farm at Grayling. Did you ever come down there (on edge of the town) to see what we are doing? You didn't? Well, I'm surprised! What we are doing there is right in your line, too!

Perhaps you can come down this next summer. All right. Shake on that.

You can slap the soy beans in with a hand corn planter, too, right in the hills with corn. You can get good results by mixing the soy bean seed with seed corn in the grain drill, but should stir the mixture well at each end of the field to secure a uniform planting.

Kinds
We find that people around here are having best satisfaction with either the Ito San, Black Eyebrow or the Manchurian variety of soy beans. P. S. We need more 11-disc grain drills with fertilizer attachment. It is going to pay us to use more and more acid phosphate along with the stable manure and the green manure.

If you should disagree with the writer on any point mentioned above, just drop into the office and tell us. If you have done well with soy beans, in and tell us about it so we can tell others and encourage them.

P. S. No. 2. O yes, I nearly forgot to say that soy beans are splendid for building up soil that seems to have a kind of tired feeling, gives it pep for the next crop, something as clover does, more quickly and cheaper.

Good way to do it is: In the late spring plow under last fall's rye; when knee high, roll well. Harrow well. Drill inoculated soy beans right in. Turn them under with chain or plow about last of August.

Next crop on that field will please you.

PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

(By Ed A. Nowack)

Lansing—This is a sketchy review of Michigan's industrial development from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1926, inclusive.

Twenty-five years ago the dominant economic interest in Michigan was agriculture. Today the dominant interest is industrial production. It entered the present century with less than 400,000 of primary horse power. This has increased by more than a million, of which more than 800,000 are electrical, giving us more kilowatt hours of energy per capita of population than our neighbors of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois or Wisconsin enjoy.

In 1900 there were a few more than 4000 factories in Michigan. In 1925 there were over 10,000. Total industrial employees in 1900 was 154,563. Automotive and allied industries were undreamed of. In 1924 they alone employed 268,778 men and women, while the metal working industry employed 92,922; woodworking industries, 40,913; miscellaneous industries 92,000 more, a total of 494,608.

Largest employers of labor in 1900 were nothing compared to the present. The largest Kalamazoo labor employer, a paper mill, had 473 people. A Jackson shop had 850. Saginaw industry had 309. Grand Rapids' greatest furniture works had 602 and Muskegon's great knitting mill had 660.

Today, Edsel Ford, Michigan's greatest employer, gives work, as president of the Ford Motor Company, to almost 200,000; Charles Mott to 80,000; Fred J. Haynes to 20,000; Walter Briggs to 20,000; Alvin MacCauley to 17,000.

The daily industrial payroll in 1900 was about $213,352. Today it is more than ten times that. The annual industrial payroll then was $53,338,000. The 1925 industrial payroll alone will be more than $682,750,000.

The highest priced mechanic in 1900 received less pay per hour, day and year than the lowest priced common laborer today. The annual per capita purchasing power of the workers' families has jumped up to $99.40 for food; $53.63 for raiment and $21.31 for furniture.

The dairy industry has been established here in the last 25 years and so has orcharding. The apple, peach, pear and plum crops have added annually millions to incomes of agriculturists. The small fruit and the sugar beet industry has been established.

Since 1900 approximately 1,557,000 of population has been added to the leading industrial cities of the state.

Detroit's population has jumped from 255,000 people in 1900 to a million and a quarter now.

Grand Rapids has jumped from 87,565 to about 150,000. Kalamazoo from 25,000 to 60,000. Lansing from 17,000 to 87,451. Flint, scene of the most marvelous growth in the state's history, has multiplied more than ten times. Jackson has grown from 26,798 to 82,000. Battle Creek from 20,000 to 43,000. Muskegon from 25,000 to 50,000.

Out of a clear sky have come four important seats of industry in the last 25 years; Highland park with 60,000, Hamtramck with 60,000 more, Springwells with at least 60,000 and Iron Mountain with 20,000.
